REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Auburn:

In this, his third annual report, the Superintendent wishes to consider financial economy made possible through smaller school enrollment, relocation of schools and transportation, and improved health facilities.

Enrollment and Organization

In the last two years the pupil enrollment in the schools of Auburn has decreased from one hundred fifty to one hundred thirty children. This decrease has been particularly evident in the grammar room of the Severance school. Here in September only fifteen pupils were occupying a room equipped for thirty-five. To maintain in Auburn the average of twenty-five pupils per teacher room, as suggested in districts receiving state aid, it became evident that eventually either the two rooms at Severance must be combined in one room of all eight grades or a combination made with the nearest one-room school.

In September, upon request of Miss Quinn, teacher of the Severance grammar school, for release from her contract with the school board of Auburn, permission was granted. To fill this vacancy, the school board and Superintendent felt that there was need of some combination that would retain an experienced teacher in charge of this grammar school. To meet the emergency Mrs. Brown, teacher of No. 7 school, was immediately transferred to Severance and, with the exception of two pupils who entered the Village school, the eight grades of the No. 7 school were combined with the two-room graded school at Severance.

Although this combination necessitated the transportation of the majority of the children from the No. 7 school, it has effected a net saving to the taxpayers of approximately four hundred dollars. To the pupils it has given teachers particularly adapted to their grades, longer periods of instruction in subject matter, and those competitive interests derived from contacts with larger classes.

At Bunker Hill there occurred the only additional change in organization. Here Beatrice S. Clark was elected to succeed Miss Labbee who accepted a departmental position in the schools of Rochester. Upon the withdrawal of Mrs. Clark in October, Miss Frances E. Illsley of Auburn, a 1931 graduate of Plymouth Normal school, was elected teacher.

Auburn is now maintaining three one-room schools in addition to the two-room school at Severance.

Relocation of Schools and Transportation

Last year it was brought to the attention of your school authorities that all children being transported over the route from Chester Road to the Bunker Hill school were living within the two-mile limit of their school. Hence this route no longer entitled Auburn to state aid money. To meet the situation this Bunker Hill route, which would have cost the district alone over four hundred dollars a year, was discontinued.

To better accommodate the children thus deprived of transportation, and to improve the building facilities at a minimum of expense, the building formerly used at the No. 2 school was abandoned and the No. 1 building on the Chester Road opened.

During the summer the interior of the latter building was thoroughly renovated and equipped with individual seats and desks. Access was provided by separate passageways leading directly from the schoolroom to toilets and woodshed.

Although the school grounds at No. 1 are more ample than those at the No. 2 school, the Superintendent strongly recommends that closely woven wire fence be placed on the boundary between the school property and the public highway.

Health Facilities

All one-room schools in Auburn are now equipped with indirect heating and ventilating systems that not only contribute to the health and convenience of the pupils but can be operated more economically than the open stoves.

The problem of adequately heating and at the same time properly ventilating the classrooms of the Severance school is difficult to solve since there is only one chimney and this is situated in the corridor at some distance from the rooms. A somewhat expensive, but efficient means, of correcting this lack of ventilation would be by the erection of an outside chimney to serve each room.

At Severance the use of a large drinking fountain with bubbler attachment has been adopted to eliminate the annual expenditure for paper drinking cups.

Hot lunches are now being served during the winter in the majority of your schools. At Severance the materials are generously provided and deliciously prepared by the community club. This service is a real asset to health and mental efficiency.

I wish to call attention to the valuable work continued by your school nurse. Her report for last year will be found under a separate heading. This year her frequent and thorough inspections of the schools during the appearance of scarlet fever and chicken pox were appreciated by parents and teachers. Through the extension of her services in other school districts and the reduced pupil enrollment in the schools of Auburn, there has been a reduction of sixty-five dollars in the portion of the nurse's salary paid by Auburn.

In Conclusion

Although the number of pupils attending public high schools and academies demands this year an increased appropriation for tuitions, you are enabled by consolidation and relocation of schools to reduce by several hundred dollars the total sum derived from taxation for all school purposes.

This year, with one exception, experienced teachers have been retained in all of your schools. Such experience is a valuable asset to efficient schools and a source of educational economy not to be overlooked.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE H. HARMON,
Superintendent of Schools.
